European Child Guarantee Newsletter – No. 9

Dear reader,

The 2026 Commission work programme published on 21 October sets out key strategies, action plans and legislative initiatives that will lay the foundation for the work ahead and help deliver on the ambition to build a strong, secure, and prosperous Europe. You will surely notice the strong focus put on delivering on the Political Guidelines of the current Commission, in particular through the first ever EU Anti-Poverty Strategy and a strengthened European Child Guarantee.

In this context, and as we approach the 20 November - the World's Children's Day, our work on the implementation of the European Child Guarantee becomes even more urgent. Addressing child poverty is not only a moral issue, but also an urgent task economically speaking, as child poverty has a cost. By undermining the potential of our youngest generation, by quelling innovative ideas and opportunities, child poverty results in lower productivity. 3.4% of GDP – this is what child poverty costs us each year on average in the EU, according to the OECD.

With this motivation in mind, we invite you to a handful of news on new events and reports relating to our work.

European Commission presents its work programme for 2026

On 21 October, the College (plenary meeting of all EU Commissioners) adopted the Commission work programme for 2026. According to President von der Leyen, the document marks "another significant step towards a stronger, more sovereign Europe." Each year, the work programme informs the public and co-legislators of the Commission's political commitments to present new initiatives, withdraw pending proposals and review existing EU legislation.

The work programme features six priority areas. Under supporting people and strengthening Europe's social model heading, Quality Jobs Act, the Fair labour mobility package, and the Education package figure prominently, as well as a series of measures to address the affordability and cost of living crisis. In addition, the first-ever EU Anti-poverty strategy will address structural causes of exclusion and strengthen support services. The strategy will be backed by a strengthened Child Guarantee that will include investments and reforms to tackle child poverty. Read the full 2026 CWP.

For International Children's Day 2025, COFACE Families Europe will place the spotlight on the European Child Guarantee and its potential to drive positive change for children and their families. This will be done through an online European peer exchange which will focus on the Belgian family centre model referred to as the House of the Child, as a starting point for transnational exchanges and mutual learning with other countries in the EU and neighbourhood countries.

This public webinar will be open to policy makers, and Child Guarantee Coordinators are welcome to join the discussion to share updates on their approaches to integrated family support. Please feel free to share this information with colleagues (practitioners, policy makers and researchers) in your country working at local to national level to implement the European Child Guarantee.

Programme, factsheets and registrations can be found on the COFACE website here.

Child Guarantee outside EU

One of the things that prove the success and importance of the European Child Guarantee is the interest it has received in the EU candidate and potential candidate countries. In fact, nine countries – Albania, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Kosovo<sup>[1]</sup>, Moldova, Montenegro, North Macedonia, Serbia, Türkiye, and Ukraine – are interested in implementing the child guarantee recommendation already before accession to the European Union. To do so, they have nominated the contact points, who will play a role like that of Child Guarantee Coordinators in the current member states and will start working on strategies/action plans addressing children in need. The Commission has also shared guidance explaining the practicalities of the implementation of the Child Guarantee. An on-line information session for the Contact Points took place in September. On 20-21 November, a further technical meeting financed by the European Commission under the TAIEX Facility will take place in Podgorica (Montenegro).

Eurofound: working for children matters: an overview of service delivery and workforce in Europe

Labour shortages – often due to migration of healthcare workers – may undermine equitable access to healthcare services across the EU. This is having a particularly important impact on children, given that the percentage of children reporting very good health has decreased substantially in recent years.

This and many other findings, you will be able to further follow in this new Eurofound report, which analyses trends and disparities in the accessibility of services for children that must be addressed to achieve this. Moreover, given that staff play an integral role in determining the quality and accessibility of these services, this report describes the state of play of staff working conditions and training opportunities. Good working conditions and affordable high-quality services, such as early childhood education and care, also play a key role in encouraging labour market participation and increasing productivity. Read more here.
